Accommodations
Certain accommodations may be made by the Title IX Coordinator and/or Deputy, or appropriate designee, in an effort to mitigate any situations where further threat and/or harassment could occur as a result of a victim filing a report or bringing forward allegations. These accommodations could include, but are not limited to: changes in academic, living, transportation, and working situations if those changes are requested by the victim and reasonably available; “No Contact” orders; Summary Suspension; attendant restrictions; all other restrictions outlined in the Code of Conduct under “Interim Sanctions”; any other interim restriction or sanction deemed appropriate by the Title IX Coordinator or Deputy, or appropriate designee. A written summary of rights, options, supports, and procedures, is provided to all reporting and responding parties, whether they are students, employees, guests, or visitors.

When no-contact orders are issued, students have the right to review the order with an appropriate University Official, appointed by the Title IX Coordinator or Deputy, or appropriate designee, to discuss the need for and terms of the order, other interim measures and/or accommodations.

If an outside agency or court of law has put in place an order of protection, the University will assist in upholding the order, including explaining the legal consequences for violating the order. If the University receives a report of an official order of protection being violated, the University will provide assistance in contacting the appropriate law enforcement agency.

Adviser of Choice
The reporting party and/or victim, and the responding party, have the right to an adviser of their choice present with them through any interviews throughout the investigation, and proceedings resulting from Title IX investigations. The role of the adviser is to be of support to the parties. Advisers are not permitted to represent the parties. Thus, advisers are not permitted to ask or answer questions, nor are they to interfere in the process for any reason at any time. Additionally, the University will determine its own schedule, and it is incumbent upon the reporting party, victim and responding party to ensure their advisors are available. The schedule for interviews, hearings, appeals, or any meeting necessary will not be driven by adviser availability.
