Academic Regalia

The gowns worn at Commencement reflect a tradition dating from the first universities founded in Europe almost 800 years ago. Because those seats of learning were established by religious orders, the characteristics of their dress at that time are retained, albeit in a somewhat modified form.

The colors that designate areas of study were established for the colleges and universities of the United States in 1895.

The hood, now worn symbolically, was formerly a practical part of the garment, worn over the head to protect the wearer from cold and the elements.

There are three types of robes:

The bachelor's gown is black with full sleeves.

The master's gown, also black, has long sleeves closed at the bottom and a slit midway, through which the wearers put their arms.

The doctor's gown is usually black, but other colors are also used. It is characterized by velvet facing on the front and velvet bars on the sleeves.

The gowns of the trustees are gray.

The colors used on all hoods, as well as on the velvet of the doctor's gown, indicate the area of study or type of degree.

You'll see these colors this weekend on the hoods of St. Bonaventure University undergraduate and graduate candidates:

White: Bachelor and Master of Arts.

Gold: Bachelor and Master of Science.

Tan: Bachelor and Master of Business/Accountancy.

Crimson: Bachelor of Arts in Communication.

Light blue: Bachelor and Master of Science in Education.

Green: Bachelor and Master of Science in Health Professions.

Medicine Green: Master of Science in Physician Assistant Studies

Slate blue: Master of Science in Occupational Therapy

Salmon pink: Master of Public Health

The predominant faculty hood color you'll see is deep blue, for Ph.D. The color of the lining of the faculty hoods indicates the institution from which their degrees were earned.

The tassel on the mortarboard, or cap, is black with the exception that the doctor's tassel is usually gold.

The president of St. Bonaventure is wearing the presidential medallion and chain, signifying the office.

Honorary Degree Recipient

John Ryan Broderick

President Emeritus, Old Dominion

A native of Bristol, Connecticut, Broderick has built a distinguished career spanning journalism, public relations and higher education leadership.

As a student, he pursued his passion for sportswriting, earning bylines in several daily newspapers and becoming one of the youngest contributors to The Sporting News. He later wrote for prominent publications including the Washington Post, Baltimore Sun, and Chronicle of Higher Education.

Broderick devoted 30 years to higher education, culminating in his presidency of Old Dominion University, a public doctoral institution of 25,000 students and 3,000 employees, which he led for 13 years (2008-2021). His tenure was marked by more than $1 billion in public and private fundraising and the expansion of campus infrastructure through over 50 major projects.

Yet he consistently emphasized student success as his highest priority. Alongside his wife, Kate, a fellow first-generation college graduate, he championed initiatives to improve retention and graduation rates, including the creation of a Learning Commons and a comprehensive student engagement division.

A respected and approachable leader, Broderick fostered a collaborative campus culture and strengthened relationships across government, industry and academia. His advocacy helped secure significant state investments in areas such as public health, cybersecurity and coastal resilience, while partnerships with organizations including NASA and major research institutions expanded opportunities for innovation and learning.

Earlier in his career, Broderick served as director of Public Relations at St. Bonaventure, where he earned a master's degree in education (1987) and began teaching. He credits the Franciscan values and mentorship he encountered there as formative influences on his life and leadership.

In 2019, he shared a presidential honor from NASPA with then California chancellor Janet Napolitano and received a trailblazer award from the Virginia Center for Inclusive Communities in Richmond.

John and Kate, who received the inaugural Distinguished Graduate Alumnus Award Saturday at SBU's graduate commencement, are the proud parents of three sons and grandparents of seven.

Honorary Degree Recipients

Carol and James Stitt Sr.

Olean civic leaders and philanthropists

Carol and Jim Stitt have long exemplified the highest ideals of civic leadership, philanthropy and community stewardship in the Greater Olean region and beyond. Their enduring commitment to service, education and regional development has left a profound and lasting impact on countless individuals and institutions.

A dedicated community leader and advocate, Carol played a transformative role in the growth of the Cattaraugus Region Community Foundation (CRCF). As its first executive director, serving in a volunteer capacity, she guided the organization from its modest beginnings of three funds totaling $75,000 to a thriving foundation with more than 50 funds and $9 million in assets. Her leadership helped establish CRCF as a vital philanthropic resource for the region. She continued her service as a member and president of its Board of Directors and remains actively engaged today. Over the years, Carol has contributed her time and expertise to numerous organizations, including the Olean YMCA, Intandem and St. John's Catholic Church, reflecting a lifelong dedication to strengthening community life.

Jim, executive chairman of Cutco Corporation, has combined business leadership with an unwavering commitment to community advancement. Since joining the company in 1975 and becoming an equity partner in 1983, he has helped guide its growth while fostering a culture of innovation and integrity.

Jim's civic engagement spans decades and includes service on the boards of St. Bonaventure, Jamestown Community College, and numerous economic development organizations. He has also played a key role in initiatives supporting entrepreneurship and education, including the establishment of the Innovation Center at St. Bonaventure and the Stitt Scholars program at the University of Dayton.

Together, Carol and Jim Stitt have been steadfast champions of philanthropy and regional progress. Through their leadership and support of the Cutco Foundation, they have advanced educational opportunity, economic vitality and community well-being across the region. Their generosity, vision and deep sense of responsibility to others embody the very spirit of service that this honorary degree seeks to recognize.

Honorary Degree Recipient & Speaker

Frederick R. Crawford Sr., '64

SBU Hall of Famer, Harlem civic leader

Crawford is one of St. Bonaventure's most distinguished student-athletes and a lifelong leader in community service whose impact extends far beyond the basketball court.

Crawford emerged as a standout at Samuel Gompers High School in the Bronx, New York before enrolling at St. Bonaventure, where he helped elevate the Bonnies to national prominence. In 1960-61, he set the program's sophomore record with 614 points, helping to lead the team to its first NCAA Tournament appearance.

Over three varsity seasons, he amassed 1,738 points and averaged 22.5 points and 10.3 rebounds per game, serving as team captain and earning All-East honors as a senior. He was inducted into the St. Bonaventure Athletics Hall of Fame in 1970 and named to the university's 20-man All-Time Team during its Centennial celebration in 2019.

Crawford continued his career at the professional level, playing in the National Basketball Association for the New York Knicks, Los Angeles Lakers, Milwaukee Bucks, Buffalo Braves and Philadelphia 76ers. Known for his versatility, toughness, and team-first approach, he earned respect as a dependable guard-forward capable of impacting all facets of the game.

Equally significant is Crawford's enduring commitment to community leadership, particularly in Harlem. A revered figure at the famed Holcombe Rucker Park, he has contributed for decades to the development of youth basketball and mentorship in New York City. His civic engagement includes service as a supervisor with the Visiting Nurses' Service Intensive Case Management Services and as owner of Appletown Sporting Goods, a neighborhood business that became a local hub. He was elected president of the Community School Board of District 5 in Harlem and served as Central Harlem Planning District 10's Chairman of the Housing Committee, advocating for neighborhood stability and opportunity. As a lifelong learner committed to academic excellence, he received an MPA degree from Baruch College in 1992.

Crawford continues to give back through board service, including his role with the Harlem Gallery of Science, which promotes access to STEAM opportunities for young people of color, and his past involvement with the Greater Harlem Chamber of Commerce.

166th SBU Commencement Exercises

Crystal Crawford

Daughter of Freddie Crawford

Crawford, the daughter of Freddie Crawford, is a nationally recognized leader in philanthropy, public health, law and social justice, with more than two decades of experience advancing equity for underserved communities. She serves as senior director of Strategic Partnerships at the Weingart Foundation, where she oversees the development of strategic relationships and partnerships with community leaders, philanthropy, policymakers and stakeholders to expand and amplify the impact and visibility of the foundation. In this inaugural role at a foundation that has provided more than $1 billion in grants and loans across Southern California, she works to help build the capacity of communities to advance racial, social and economic justice by transforming systems and communities.

Prior to joining the Weingart Foundation in 2024, Crawford served as executive director of the Western Center on Law & Poverty, a nationally recognized leader in fighting poverty and advocating for systemic and structural change. She deepened the organization's commitment to racial justice, strengthened partnerships with community-based organizations, and helped advance major policy and legal victories addressing healthcare, housing, and economic security for low-income Californians.

Earlier in her career, Crawford was a program director at The California Wellness Foundation, where she led the development of the organization's groundbreaking Women's Initiatives, a multi-million-dollar investment designed to improve the health and economic well-being of women of color. She also served as CEO of the California Black Women's Health Project, a pioneering statewide organization dedicated to advancing the health of Black women and girls through advocacy, education and outreach.

For more than a decade, she has served as a commissioner with the Los Angeles County Public Health Commission and has held leadership roles with numerous civic and community organizations.

Crawford earned an A.B. degree in History from Dartmouth College and a J.D. degree from New York University School of Law, where she was a Hays Civil Liberties Fellow. She is a recipient of the Dartmouth Alumni Award from her beloved alma mater and the Woman of Distinction Award from NYU Law School's Women of Color Collective.
