Purpose of the Degree

The master's degree program in Inclusive Special Education (M.S.Ed.), available only online, is designed to help teachers meet the everchanging demands of diverse classrooms and may be completed by teachers with certification in nearly any area or grade level.

Our program is designed to help graduates:

- Add an additional special education certification to better serve all students in K-12 classrooms.
- Expand your knowledge on how to include students with disabilities in general education classrooms.
- Understand the many variables in schools, which often make collaboration difficult, and the bridges over them.
- Develop knowledge of assessment and data literacies to meet the needs of all learners.
- Meet the basic needs of students who speak a language other than English.
- Learn the means to individualize and differentiate STEM content for all learners.
- Develop the ability to integrate meaningful instructional and assistive technologies.
- Design supportive environments to meet the social, emotional, and behavioral needs of learners.
- Take a deeper dive into trauma-informed care, and better understand students with emotional and behavioral disorders.

Information about Certification

This advanced program meets the New York state master's degree requirement for professional teacher certification. Students must have completed the requirements for initial teacher certification. Students may be accepted on provisional status if they are working toward meeting these requirements. Students who hold teacher certification from states other than New York should meet with the program director to discuss certification options.

Completion of this program meets the requirements for students with disabilities (special ed.) teacher certification for all grades.

Clinical Experience Requirement

Consistent with our conceptual framework of competence, experience and social justice, students have the opportunity to gain experience by practicing their skills in P-12 classrooms. Clinical experience is integrated throughout the program with a culminating experience in SPED 590. Most working teachers can complete their clinical experience in their own classrooms/schools, although they must find ways of completing hours in two different developmental settings, for example K-6, or 7-12. Candidates will need to experience special educator roles across all grades (P-12). For those who cannot, we will work with you to locate an appropriate placement.
